BRIEFLY

Campus

Course Policies: Due to the large number of students enrolled in business classes policy procedures are being enforced regarding students who missed the first day of class.

Unless all sections of that class are filled, the student is still enrolled. However, if the class is filled students will be dropped. Closed course cards for business classes are only available through departmental offices.

People

Rose's baby: Although caught for his gambling habit, Cincinnati Reds star Pete Rose took no chances with the birth of his youngest Tuesday afternoon. Rose's wife, Carol had a 7 lb., 7 ounce healthy baby girl.

Odd couple: Tony Randall, of "Odd Couple" TV series fame will be playing a French diplomat who carries on a 20-year old romance with a female opera singer who is really a man. Randall has been quoted to say this is the "real odd couple."

State

Snakeless store: In Wickliffe, Ohio, bandits robbed the Animal House Pet Wholesale, a pet store containing birds and snakes. Instead of taking money, the robbers stole $14,000 worth of boa constrictors and chameleons.

Sandusky Port: Sandusky, Ohio is looking to expand its bay with a port, which would create 12 new sites. The proposal calls for the city to pay 10 percent with the rest of the $67,500 cost being picked up by the state.

Nation

Avoid Noid: Kenneth Lamar Noid, 23, of Atlanta recently held up a Domino's Pizza because he felt he was the target of the successful campaign. He was found innocent by reason of insanity.

Young driver: A 7-year-old boy in Amarillo, Texas took his parents' 1981 Buick for a ride before being stopped by police. Neighbors had reported a driverless car.

Gags cost: The maker of Tootsie Roll candy doesn't see the humor in a toilet paper called Tushie Rolls, packaged in a brown wrapper with red and orange stripes. Tootsie Roll Industries in Atlanta sued Cloud Nine Promotions Inc. of Alpharetta on Tuesday over its $6.99-a-roll gag gift.

New experiment: An experimental drug in Boston can help women conquer an overwhelming urge to tear out their hair, a surprisingly common disorder that affects millions of Americans, leaving some bald, researchers say.

World

Nazi bomb: An unexploded 1,100 lb. World War II bomb was found recently in Samos, Greece. Reportedly it is the first to be found since the Nazi bombardment during the war.

Underage 'reflecton'

by Jeff Batdorf
staff writer

Students who are guilty of underage drinking not only have to face disciplinary actions from Standards and Procedures, but also have to attend a four-week alcohol awareness program entitled, "Reflections."

Jacque Daley, director of the Prevention Center for Alcohol and Drug Abuse, said students will have to attend a 90-minute session — once a week for four weeks — to talk about alcohol-related problems and the reasons behind drinking.

"This gives students a chance to take a look at themselves, assess themselves and gather more information to decide whether they should drink or not," Daley said.

She said this is the first time this program has gone into effect and she said the committee expects a large turnout.

"We're anticipating a lot of people, so we'll be running six sessions a month in groups of eight to 12 people with the help of graduate students and myself," Daley said.

"Reflections" was created to give students something more to think about than just being punished.

Derek Dickinson, director of Standards and Procedures, said punishment would consist of a one-year probation for the first offense and a semester suspension for the second offense. Underage students who are found to be in possession of alcohol that has not been consumed will not have to attend the program, he said.

Daley said mandatory attendance will be used to enforce the program and the sessions will be run in regular classrooms set around student schedules.

Pi Phi house zoning granted for the year

by Greg Plagens
city editor

With a variance granted in June, the Pi Beta Phi sorority is allowed to function without change until at least the end of the 1989-90 school year.

Trouble began for the sorority last spring when it was discovered that use of the house at 425 E. Court St., owned by Robert Maurer, violated zoning regulations.

Ward 1 City Councilman Don Pond said the problem lies in their use of the basement as a general meeting room. "That fourth floor (referring to the basement) should have never been built. It's illegal."

Pond said the Pi Phi's are trying to have their house rezoned from an R-3 to an R-4 district because the maximum number of floors allowed in an R-3 district is three.

"They're really getting stuck hard with the floor requirement," Pond said.

Both R-3 and R-4 are multiple family districts with churches and condominiums permitted in an R-3 district, Pond said. However, the R-4 district also allows fraternities and sororities, as well as dormitories and boarding houses.

If the zoning change does not occur, Pond said the Pi Phi's will still be able to rent the building and keep their letters up, but they will not be able to cook or gather in the basement.

According to Michele Kunka, Pi Beta Phi president, "We went before the board of zoning and were rezoned to an R-4 in June."

However, according to City Council

Bogota drug bust

by Kevin Noblet
Associated Press writer

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Police arrested five men suspected in the assassination of Luis Carlos Galan, the presidential hopeful whose slaying sparked a government crackdown on Colombia's notorious drug traffickers.

Also Tuesday, police said they had started proceedings to extradite the reputed finance chief of the Medellin drug cartel to the United States, where he faces conspiracy and drug trafficking charges.

The arrests in Galan's slaying created additional security headaches for a nation under a years-old campaign of terror by drug traffickers and their hired hitmen.

The arrests in downtown Bogota appear to reflect an unusual efficiency on the part of security forces. Never before in a major drug-related assassination had police announced key arrests with such speed. In many cases no arrests were ever made.

The five men were presented to reporters at national police headquarters, where they were under heavy guard. Police said all were Colombians.

They stood silently, their faces fixed in a blank expression. They were dressed in casual clothing and four appeared to be in their 20s or 30s. The fifth was older, perhaps in his 50s, with graying hair.

A police communique gave their names and said they were captured earlier Tuesday but provided no further details.

The men were not known members of the drug trafficking community, which authorities say routinely hires killers and helps finance the training of shadowy death squads in association with right-wing extremists.

Several men are believed to have participated in the killing of Galan Friday at a campaign rally in Soacha, a town outside Bogota.

Atwater visits Ohio

by Robert E. Miller
Associated Press writer

COLUMBUS (AP) — National GOP Chairman Lee Atwater invited blacks and other minorities into the Republican Party in visits Wednesday to Cincinnati, Columbus and Toledo, stumping along the way for local GOP candidates.

But he told reporters in Columbus that he supports a decision by Ohio's Republican Party to oppose the reelection of U.S. Rep. Donald Lukens, convicted in May on a misdemeanor sex charge involving a teen-ager.

Atwater described himself and President Bush as optimistic in their hopes for a party with a broader base and denied suggestions that blacks may still be angry over Bush campaign commercials that some said were racist.

In Columbus, at a midday news conference between visits to Cincinnati and Toledo, Atwater reiterated claims by Bush and others that the ads were independently made and paid for by overzealous Bush supporters.

Most objectionable to many blacks was an ad that featured black prisoner Willie Horton, a convicted killer paroled under a program approved by Bush's Democratic opponent, Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts.

The Pi Beta Phi sorority house, located at 425 E. Court St., has recently been under scrutiny due to city zoning ordinances.

President John Quinn, "The Zoning Board of Appeals granted a one-year variance in June to allow for an attempt at rezoning during this period. Only City Council can change zoning."

Although the Planning Commission recommended a zoning change in June,

City Council will not make a determination to rezone until after a public hearing Sept. 18 at 5:30 p.m.

"It appears there aren't enough votes on council for the change of zoning to take place," Quinn said.

a step ahead

Good things come to those who wait. Last spring, the University took a step forward and implemented a $240,000 telephone registration system to replace an old system consisting of long drop/add lines and paperwork.

As with any new system, however, there are bound to be a few bugs. Although it was intended for use beginning with the spring 1990 semester, the decision was made by the Office of Registration and Records to use the new system this fall for freshmen registration and drop/adds.

According to Susan Pugh, this decision was made to "ease the transition" from the old way to the new — but in fact has generated frustration among the student body. Approximately five seconds after the 32 incoming phone lines were opened, they were busy — and they remained busy throughout the remainder of the day.

However, many of the busy signals students heard came from the lines of the local telephone company — not the University.

Students are allotted a specified number of calls per day as well as minutes per call, so they should be prepared when they call so as not to waste both a phone call and time. Immediate reconnections are not likely in such a congested system.

Complete instructions for the system's use were mailed to students with their fall schedules, so there is no excuse for lack of preparation. If a student completes only the step of entering their access code and does not sign off, the system must be shut down to reopen the line. This, in turn, wastes a phone call and prevents other students from accessing the system.

Statistics have proved there also were more drop/adds done over the telephone than through the computer terminal, so University students must realize that the telephone lines are going to be at least as busy as the drop-add lines were. The advantage now is that they won't have to stand in line for hours.

One of the most common complaints was made by students hoping to add into a section offered at a more desirable time than the one they were scheduled for. The system will not allow students to hold seats in two sections of the same class. So, students must drop a section before they add into another.

This prevents choosy students from closing out sections from those students in real need of a course. Administrators should be praised for finally adjusting this inconsistency within the registration system.

Secretaries from the Office of Registration and Records have been made available for walk-up drop/adds and for inquiries into open sections. There were six windows open the day before classes began and no lines in front of them.

Students having problems now have no room for complaint because they can go directly to the office before they waste a call trying to add into another section of a course they already are registered for.

Despite the few minor malfunctions within the new system, the students' ignorance about the system should not be a reason to discredit the University, which took measures to improve a highly contested and closely scrutinized problem.

The University should be commended for taking a step into the future.

Viewpoint—Barbara A. Weadock

Column open for views from others

In the two years I have been enrolled at the University, I have seen and heard many things that have made me angry, excited, introspective and thankful.

I am not alone. Each person on the University campus can offer a unique insight into events and policies that are encountered daily. Some of the events have too much of an impact to let slide by.

There are many issues to be addressed and some of them are complex enough to merit listening to available opinions from each faction of University life — student, staff, faculty and administrator.

It is listening to opinions that is done on this page every day, in every issue of the BG News. The student newspaper is a forum for expression, be it by students, faculty or administration, and is open to all to make their views public.

Some people complain that the pages of the student newspaper are limited to students of journalism, but they are wrong. The pages of the BG News are not limited to the students in the journalism program. They are accessible to all people and all opinions.

I would like to extend an invitation to all students, faculty and administrators to feel free to submit columns on campus, local and national events and policies for publication under this column title heading.

The title of this column is Viewpoint, and that is exactly what it is — a viewpoint from a voice on campus.

The column will run on alternating Thursdays and is designed to give members of the University community a chance to publish their opinions and viewpoints on campus and related issues.

While expressing an opinion is the purpose of editorial columns, facts provide the skeleton of any article, and persons wishing to submit columns are responsible for verifying the facts they have stated.

While all people are welcome to express their views, they must do so within the confines of good journalistic principles. Submission of a column does not guarantee publication. The editorial board of the BG News reviews and is responsible for choosing columns for publication.

Columns containing libel or obscenities will not be published.

Column size averages 22 to 24 inches (700-800 words) and must be submitted no later than one week before publication. Original copies will not be returned. Please address all columns to the editorial editor.

Letters

Harshman custodial staff applauded by desk clerks, nightguards

To the Editor:

If you're like many people, you may think the University shuts down for summer except for a few summer students. This isn't the case at all. The campus residence halls are kept buzzing with camps and conferences. This is an important time for the University.

For instance, the IBM conference puts large amounts of money into our University. Such programs as Headstart, Governor's Institute and Buckeye Boy's State introduces our campus to bright prospective students. As summer desk clerks and nightguards know how important it is to represent out University in a positive light answering questions about Bowling Green State University college life and our city of Bowling Green to prospective students and to conference leaders.

We also know how demanding some of these conferences can be and how "rowdy" (for lack of a nicer word) certain athletic camps can be. And this is where we give our standing ovation to our custodial staff here at BG!

We do not know how they kept the buildings standing or how they kept our turn-over for check-ins on time.

The buildings need to be totally cleaned before a new conference comes in, sometimes (coming in) back to back! They always pulled through — sometimes working all night to make things run smoothly. Our custodial staff made desk clerking and nightguarding easy with their efficiency, and pleasant with their patience and understanding.

The University custodial staff is the best around, so please remember that before you leave an empty soda can on a table or trash the incinerator room. Respect University property as you would your own, and respect our custodial staff for what they are — THE GREATEST!

University custodial staff, you are appreciated!

Thank you,
Summer Harshman staff and
Tony Anderson
Harshman hall manager

Students aid Chinese

Organization raises relief for protestors' families

by Wynne Everett
staff writer

Inspired by a Columbus rally protesting the massacre in Tiananmen square in June, Chinese students at the University recently organized the Chinese Students and Scholar Association.

This organization raised $1,622 in relief this summer for families of students injured or killed in Beijing.

Yangdong Pan, a graduate student in biology and one founder of the organization, said the crisis in Beijing motivated local Chinese students to organize a group similar to the one at The Ohio State University.

"When we came back, everybody was thinking about one question, 'what can we do?'" Pan said.

The organization's first activity was a fundraiser which consisted of a letter-writing campaign and a booth in the University Union foyer.

Pan said the group was surprised to have raised such a large amount of money in the two months it conducted the campaign.

"We did not expect such good results," he said. "We were very touched at how supportive the American people were."

Much of the credit for the success of the fundraising can be attributed to the support of the University's Office of Student Affairs and the press coverage the group received, he said.

After the group collected the money, it was sent to Columbus where, along with money raised by other student groups, it was funneled through "contacts" into China. From there it was distributed among families of pro-democracy students who have been ostracized by the Communist government for their connection with the student movement.

"There are people — mostly Chinese — who are safe because they hold American citizenship, who can take the money back to China," Pan said.

The groups find families in need of assistance through a nationwide information network which has been established to collect information on killed or wounded students and their families, he said.

In many cases, the groups find relatives of the needy families in the United States who can help send money into China.

Students involved in the CSSA have been warned of the dangers of such activity, especially if they plan to return to China soon, he said.

"We know the embassy is watching us, but most of us do not care. If we cared, we could not do anything to help," he said.

Volunteers sought by Link

by Wynne Everett
staff writer

Calling on those who want to help people in need, The Link — a crisis intervention and referral service — is now accepting applications for volunteer counseling positions this fall.

The need for more volunteers stems from expansion of the Link's services to include two new programs for Wood County teens and victims of crime.

Volunteers must be at least 18 years of age and able to commit at least 15 hours weekly for a year to The Link.

Applicants must take a psychological test before beginning a 100-hour training program including a six-week course beginning Sept. 25.

Ellen Bowers, the center's executive director, said it has as many as 50 volunteer counselors of all ages who come from all walks of life.

"We have University students, teachers, policemen, newspapermen, and people from every area of the community," Bowers said.

As well as volunteer counselors, the Link will be adding two full-time staff persons to oversee the Teen Self Esteem Program for suicide prevention in area schools and the Victims Advocacy Program which will provide counseling and support for victims of crime. Both programs are slated to begin in October.

Both new programs expand existing services offered by the Link in these areas, Bowers said.

"Where we used to just go into the schools and speak to the kids once or twice about suicide, now we have the resources to spend more time in the schools," Bowers said.

Funding for the Teen Self Esteem Program is being provided through a grant by the Toledo Community Foundation and The Ohio Attorney General's office. A statewide Victims of Crime Fund provides money for the Victim's Advocacy Program.

Bowers said the new Victims Advocacy Program will have a particularly strong affect on the campus community due to the high rate of acquaintance rape on campus.

As many as 16 percent of the Link's clients are University students, Bower said. The center is open 24 hours a day, no appointment is necessary and confidentiality is ensured.

"We do not divulge clients," Bowers said, "With the exception of child abuse cases, we do not report back to anybody."

Bowers explained the concept of the Link is one of friends helping friends.

"It is average people with some special skills helping other folks," Bowers said. "That's what we're about."

Diversity goal of GSS agenda

by Lynn Gagel
staff writer

More than 2,000 graduate students are enrolled at the University, and while that number is a minority on campus, graduate students still have a voice through Graduate Student Senate.

According to GSS president, Ricardo Frazer, the organization intends to speak out for cultural diversity this year.

--Ricardo Frazer,
President of Graduate Student Senate

"Basically, we developed a program consistent with our goals of moving the cultural diversity effort forward," Frazer said. "We want to contribute to the University's goal of developing a more culturally diverse environment."

A newsletter published on Sept. 11 and a mini-conference titled "Cultural Diversity: Graduates' Roles" scheduled for Sept. 17, are two of the more serious events planned to deal with the topic.

Newsletters and mini-conferences later in the semester will deal with other issues on the GSS agenda: housing, health insurance costs, day care, and ethnicity. Frazer said each conference will look at the topics from the role of the graduate student.

Assembly members, selected or elected from each graduate department, decide upon the programming for the organization. Slated for this year are not only educational events, but also recreational activities designed to promote GSS goals.

A community open share at 8:30 p.m. Friday in the United Christian Fellowship Center at the corner of Thurston and Ridge Streets is one such activity. Open to the entire community — not just graduate students — the open share offers an opportunity for anyone to share ideas or work in any field or media. Open shares will continue every other Friday through November.

According to Frazer, cafes featuring blues, jazz and reggae, and food festivals are other social events slated this year. The first cafe, with a jazz theme, will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Ice Arena lounge.

"It's a broad range of activities to appeal to a broad spectrum at the University and build an overall sense of campus community," Frazer said. "We'd like the GSS to be visible and vocal."

Writing studied in bytes

For those students who prefer a keyboard instead of a black pen and ruled paper, the University's English department offers a computer assisted version of the traditional English 111 class.

This course boasts "two skills for one," according to Deepika Karle, assistant director of the General Studies Writing program.

In English C111, students not only learn how to write, covering the same material as English 111, but they also learn how to use a word processing system.

"The students work on a Mac-Intosh MacWrite, which is a very user-friendly system," Karle said.

The course, which has been offered for the past two years, can be registered for as any other course and space is still available for the fall semester.

Students are not required to be knowledgeable in typing or have any prior computer skills.

The classes meet in the English department's Macintosh Computer lab and there is a $15 lab fee for students enrolled in the course.

Bush

"In every instance where it was brought up, we denounced it," Atwater said in reference to the Horton commercial.

He acknowledged that Bush did campaign against the parole program but said he never mentioned prisoners by name.

Although the ad was shown in numerous newscasts after it became an issue in the campaign, Atwater shrugged off a suggestion that Bush's comments on the stump worked in concert with the ad to offend blacks.

He said the commercial "to my knowledge, was only shown in California."

In Columbus, he appeared with Guy Reece, a candidate for municipal judge in this year's off-year elections, presenting him with a check for $5,000 as a campaign contribution from the Republican National Committee.

Bush speaks from vacation home

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine (AP) — President Bush praised Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev on Wednesday for urging the Polish Communist Party to participate in the new Solidarity-led government, saying the intervention was "a positive sign."

Bush also told reporters at his vacation home that administration and Colombian officials were preparing to meet on what U.S. aid the South American nation might need to help fight drug cartels.

And the president said he had no problem with France sending its warships into the Mediterranean although the action has provoked threatening statements from the pro-Iranian terrorists holding Americans hostage in Lebanon.

"I am not about to criticize the French for what they are doing," in sending ships to stand by for possible evacuation of French nationals from Lebanon, he said. "They have tried to be a catalyst for peace in Lebanon."

Bush, standing with his back to the ocean at his scenic seaside home, took questions on a variety of topics from a group of Maine reporters and several Washington reporters traveling with him.

He then took the group to watch his wife, Barbara, play doubles tennis to prove she was feeling fine after being prescribed a new medication for eye irritation stemming from her Graves' disease.

Bush was asked if he thought the Soviets were playing a helpful role in Poland in light of Gorbachev's 40-minute phone call to Polish Communist Party leader Mieczyslaw F. Rakowski. After the call, Polish communist leaders announced they would be willing to enter a partnership with the evolving Solidarity-led government.

On Sunday, the Polish communists had demanded more than the two ministerial posts promised to them earlier in an agreement with Solidarity government.

Communist compromise clear

WARSAW (AP) — Prime Minister-designate Tadeusz Mazowiecki indicated Wednesday he would find more spots in his government for the Communist Party, offering compromise the day before he is to be elected the East bloc's first non-communist head of government.

At parliamentary caucuses, Mazowiecki stressed it could be risky not to reach agreement with the communists — especially when they still control the army and security police.

Mazowiecki's olive branch followed communist demands for a full coalition partnership role. He made clear that offering the party such a role was realistic.

"One cannot today form a government in Poland other than a broad coalition having the support of all forces sitting at the Sejm," he told Solidarity lawmakers.

But he also said he could not afford to give the communists too much.

"We cannot allow the political forces which I represent and which nominated me as their candidate to be pushed into being (merely) symbolic things," he later told an evening caucus of the lawmakers from the United Peasant Party and the Democratic Party — the two minor parties in the Solidarity coalition.

The remarks came one day after a 40-minute telephone talk between Polish Communist Party First Secretary Mieczyslaw F. Rakowski and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev in which the two agreed it was "impossible" to have a government without the communists.

The call by Gorbachev, also head of the Communist Party, was the first direct comment on the events in Poland. It was highly unusual for the Polish party to publicize such a telephone conversation, announcing it at a news conference.

AIDS claims life of young driver

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Stock car driver Tim Richmond contracted AIDS from an unknown woman and died of complications caused by the disease, a physician close to the driver's family said Wednesday.

"There's no way of knowing who that woman was," Dr. David W. Dodson said at a news conference. "Tim was a celebrity with a lot of charisma — a handsome guy. He naturally attracted a lot of women."

Secrecy surrounding Richmond's death Sunday at Good Samaritan Hospital had fueled speculation about the cause, which officially was listed as "natural." Dodson said the driver's parents decided to release information about the case.

"They lost a son to AIDS, and they don't want other parents to lose a son," Dodson said. "There's a lesson to be learned from Tim's death. A young active man was struck down because of AIDS, and it happened because of his sexual activity. People need to take precautions."

Richmond's parents, who are from Ashland, Ohio, did not attend the news conference.

"They are going through their own nightmare right now in dealing with their son's death," Dodson said. "The added publicity was making their ordeal much worse."

Starr and daughter appear in ad

DETROIT (AP) — Ex-Beatle Ringo Starr, wearing a ponytail and an earring, and daughter Lee, sporting purple hair, appear in a new Oldsmobile advertisement the carmaker hopes will attract younger buyers.

The General Motors Corp. division kicks off a series of TV spots Friday night with the theme, "This is not your father's Oldsmobile."

In one ad, Starr is chased by a crowd of middle-aged women and slides down a banquet table and out a 12th-floor window. His fall is broken by an awning and he winds up in the passenger seat of a new Olds driven by his 18-year-old daughter.

Others in the ad campaign will be actor Peter Graves and his daughter, Amanda; Ted Einstein, great-grandson of Albert Einstein; and the adult children of entertainer Harry Belafonte, without their father.

Olds says its average buyer is 51. Company executives would like that age to drop into the upper 40s.

Past child star new ambassador

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Shirley Temple Black, who won worldwide fame and a 1935 Oscar as a child film star, on Wednesday gave President Gustav Husak her credentials as the new U.S. ambassador to Czechoslovakia, the official news agency CTK said.

Black arrived in the country on Aug. 11. She last was in Prague 21 years ago, attending a congress when Warsaw Pact tanks rolled into Czechoslovakia to crush the 1968 "Prague Spring" reforms.

Black has held a number of official U.S. posts, including ambassador to Ghana from 1974-76.

House gains drug bill advocates

COLUMBUS (AP) — Grass-root support is growing for a $50 million plan that would give Ohio one of the toughest anti-drug programs of any state, its Senate sponsor said Wednesday in the wake of five regional hearings.

Senate Minority Leader Harry Meshel, D-Youngstown, said police officers, judges, elected officials, religious leaders and others voiced strong support for the proposal but at the same time suggested modifications. He said amendments are welcome.

"We have no concern about authorship. I will go to any extent to depoliticize it," Meshel said of the proposal that calls for additional judges, prosecutors, and prisons to deal with drug dealers and other serious offenders in what he called a plague affecting the state and nation.

So far, the plan is being co-sponsored only by members of Meshel's caucus but he is asking Republicans to join him for hearings in their districts. He has received indications that at least some will respond favorably, he said.

Youth convicted in van mishap

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — A 17-year-old has been sentenced from six months to three-and-a-half years in a juvenile institution for driving a van through a house in July, killing a woman and injuring her husband.

The 17-year-old male, whose name was withheld because he is a juvenile, was sentenced Tuesday in Greene County juvenile court after he accepted responsibility for his actions.

Greene County Juvenile Judge Robert A. Hagler sentenced the youth after refusing to have him tried as an adult. Earlier this month, Greene County prosecutors had asked Hagler to transfer the youth's case to a county grand jury for possible indictment as an adult.

The youth admitted to delinquency charges of aggravated vehicular homicide and reckless assault for the July 29 crash that killed Sonja Evans, 39, and seriously injured her husband, Paul Evans, 47. The vehicular homicide charge specifies the youth was drunk at the time.

Air pirate 'shaved' in Algiers

by Rachid Khiari
Associated Press writer

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — An Algerian demanding peace in Lebanon hijacked an Air France jetliner Wednesday after it left Paris, but he was arrested after landing armed only with a can of shaving cream and soap, officials said.

The unarmed emigre who had a history of petty crime said he took over the passenger flight from Paris to Algiers to call attention to "the need to end violence in Lebanon and Palestine."

The plane's pilot, Joseph Valat, told Algerian Radio the hijacker had asked to go to Tunis, Tunisia, then the Algerian cities of Annaba and Constantine, but those airports refused landing permission and the aircraft landed at its original destination of Algiers.

Valat said the air pirate had used a can of shaving cream as his "weapon." He earlier was reported to have used a bottle of spray perfume.

In a statement at Algiers' Houari Boumedienne airport, he called for "the holding of an international conference on Lebanon, the opening of a dialogue between the PLO and Israel and the liberation of all hostages and prisoners in the region."

Algerian police identified the hijacker as Said Djamel, alias Bendada, and said he was a 30-year-old merchant in Paris.

The French news agency Agence France-Presse, citing unidentified sources in Paris, said the man was being expelled for "violating public order," and said he "displayed great agitation" before being put on the flight to Algiers.

An Air France spokeswoman said the hijacking ended at 3:25 p.m. (10:25 a.m. EDT), barely an hour after the plane landed. She said the 102 passengers and 13 crew members were safe.

The air pirate, allowed to make a statement before being taken for questioning, told reporters he used the toiletry articles as his only "weapons."

The pilot, in a statement at the airport, said the hijacker had a big object under his jacket to give the appearance of a weapon and that he made known he was capable of blowing up the plane. In the radio interview later, he said the air pirate had concealed a can of shaving cream.

Residents join hands across the Baltic

by Ann Imse
Associated Press writer

TALLINN, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Baltic residents linked hands Wednesday to form a human chain across their tiny homelands, a defiant repudiation of Soviet rule on the 50th anniversary of their lost sovereignty.

Lithuanians, Latvians and Estonians took up spots along a 370-mile route from the Gulf of Finland south to the Lithuanian capital of Vilnius to demand that Moscow grant more freedom and admit it annexed their republics by force.

Organizers said they expected 1.5 million people, about one-fifth of the Baltic republics' 8 million residents, to link hands. Initial indications were that more than 1 million took part.

The official Soviet news agency, Tass, said 300,000 people joined hands in Estonia and nearly 500,000 in Lithuania. In Latvia, People's Front officials said 400,000 participated.

After decades of denials, Soviet officials have admitted that a secret deal between Josef Stalin and Adolf Hitler deeded control of the Baltic states to the Kremlin. But they maintain the nations voluntarily joined the Soviet Union.

In Moscow, police arrested 75 people demonstrating in support of the Baltic residents.

In Vilnius, about 5,000 people gathered in Cathedral Square, holding candles and singing the song that was Lithuania's national anthem until Stalin's tanks rolled into Lithuania and the other Baltic states in 1940.

Grazina Staniute, a 15-year-old Lithuanian student from Kaunas, said the candles "symbolize those who died in exile. When we light the candles, they will be with us."

Brone Surzilate, 58, one of those exiled under Stalin as the Communists set up a Soviet regime, held a card with a number on it. She said that was the number of Lithuanians that activists estimate have suffered repression under Soviet rule.

In the southern Soviet republic of Moldavia, which was absorbed by the Soviet Union at the same time, 10,000 people turned out in a heavy rain for a two-hour outdoor rally, said Molda-vian People's Front spokesman Yuri Rozhgo.

In this port city on the Gulf of Finland, the human chain began at a wind-whipped medieval tower where Estonian Premier Indrik Toome and other leaders headed the line of unity.

"We are proclaiming to each other and to the whole world that we in the Baltic nations have never given up our freedom," Heinz Valk, a leader of the grassroots Estonian People's Front, said.

Lines of tens of thousands of solemn-faced Estonians, their hands clasped and four deep in places, stretched from the tower as far as the eye could see. "Vabadus," they said, passing the Estonian word for "freedom" down the line.

Pisanello's Pizza received the most votes for "Best Pizza in B.G." in the latest campus-wide survey.

However, last April 15, a BGSU student group had a "Blind Pizza-Tasting Contest" to raise money for charity. Six out of twelve possible pizzerias were asked to donate 128 slices of pizza each. Voters paid $1.00 each to taste the pizzas and vote. We feel the purpose of this "contest" was to raise charitable monies; Marco's and Domino's tied for first and we were next by a close vote.

Agents 'snuff' film plot

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A man charged in a bizarre plan to kidnap a young boy and videotape his murder spent seven and one-half years in a Big Brother program, officials said.

Dean A. Lambey of Richmond "passed all of the agency's screening procedures to become a volunteer," Michael Raisig, executive director of Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Richmond Inc., said Tuesday.

Lambey, 34, and Daniel T. Depew, 28, of Alexandria were charged Monday after a six-month undercover police operation with conspiring to videotape the abuse and murder of a child.

"The FBI came to us when they had reason to believe he was involved (in illegal activity)," Raisig said. "We immediately took steps that there be no further contact between he and the little brother he was assigned to."

Raisig said there was no evidence that the child, who was not identified, had been molested.

Lambey had been assigned to three boys during his seven and one-half year affiliation with the organization, and Raisig said the investigation turned up no evidence any of the boys had been molested.

The investigation began after Lambey contacted an undercover police officer through a computer "bulletin board" system and asked about young boys for a pornographic "snuff" film, according to a court document.

"I want to strangle the kid, I want to hang the kid, I want to suffocate the kid," a court affidavit quoted Depew as saying about his plans for the child.

More than 100 FBI agents and San Jose, Calif., police were involved in the investigation, U.S. Attorney Henry Hudson said Tuesday.

"FBI agents from Richmond and Washington followed (the suspects) 24 hours a day to make sure no child or citizen was placed in danger," Hudson said.

The investigation began in February when a California police officer connected to a computer bulletin board system "designed to assist people seeking contact with others interested in diverse sexual pursuits," the court papers said.

Lambey and Depew are charged with conspiracy to kidnap and are being held pending grand jury action.

Council Clerk tackles duties

by John Kohlstrand
staff writer

Bowling Green resident Nancy Eridon fully assumed the post of Clerk of the Bowling Green City Council Monday night, replacing former clerk Patty Kopp.

Kopp accompanied Eridon, officially sworn in on Aug. 7, at Council meetings until last Monday night.

The new clerk expressed some degree of nervousness and anticipation about her new, part-time position.

"I'm pretty overwhelmed," Eridon said. "But once I get the procedures down, I should be okay."

City Council President John Quinn, who played a role in the selection process, spoke well of her skills.

"She has excellent typing skills and excellent personal skills," Quinn said. "She has to deal quite often with the public."

Eridon is a 1974 University graduate originally from the Findlay area. She has remained in Bowling Green since graduation, and currently works at the Century Marketing Corporation.

"I thought she did an excellent job at the first meeting," Quinn said. "I'm sure she'll do quite well."

Some of her responsibilities will include recording attendance at all council hearings and meetings, at which she will take minutes. Eridon is also responsible for council correspondence and keeping the record of city ordinances up-to-date.

Eridon was chosen from an original list of 49 applicants — narrowed to a short list of eight for interviews. A committee of three City Council members was responsible for the final selection process.

Former clerk Kopp has moved to Wyoming, where she will be pursuing studies at the University of Wyoming on a full scholarship. Also a former University student, she held the position for 18 months.

Bush: 'Mr. Smooth' on links

by Tom Raum
Associated Press writer

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine (AP) — White House physician Lawrence Mohr says it's almost as if President Bush has invented a new sport: "aerobic golf."

Mohr, whose job it is to stay within hailing distance of the president, shook his head in disbelief the other day as he raced, black doctor's satchel in hand, to keep up with the president and his party as they dashed from green to green.

Bush has been spending much of his vacation at the Cape Arundel Golf Club, where the other day he and his party zipped through 18 holes of golf in one hour and 52 minutes — something of a local record.

"All right, the crowd is hushed. They sense Mr. Smooth is back," Bush said to no one in particular as he teed off one recent day.

It's not clear why the president keeps referring to himself as "Mr. Smooth," especially since his golf game remains, he admits, a little ragged. But that's what he calls himself — and he is, after all, the president.

"Excuse me, Mr. Smooth," his principal golfing partner, eldest son George W. Bush, called out recently.

The president told him to keep quiet, that Mr. Smooth did not like a lot of talking.

The son and father appear to enjoy goading each other on the golf course, and it's a relationship played out in front of the reporters who follow the president from hole to hole.

When Bush missed a three-foot putt, another ball magically appeared in front of him. He missed that too. Another ball suddenly was provided. He missed again. Finally, on the fourth try, Bush sank the ball.

"One of the advantages of being president is you get to putt until you make it," said Bush's son to reporters and photographers.

It was George W. Bush, after all, who dared the president to jump into the chilly Atlantic with his trousers on — for $11. And the president took him up on it.

"For a guy your age, you hit pretty good," is a common observation from Bush, 42, on the performance of Bush, 65.

And so it goes, following Bush and company at a near-daily ritual as the president enjoys a vacation scheduled to last until Labor Day.

He boats, he jogs, he plays tennis, but most of all the president is using his free time to brush up on his golf.

"Just trying to come back after years of not playing," Bush says.

Bush almost always drives his own golf cart around the course, as does his son. They are followed by carts containing playing partners, the White House physician, military attaché, Secret Service agents and a variety of aides.

In addition to being allowed to retake putts, Bush enjoys another advantage of being president: His final scores are never revealed by the White House.

Runaway teens commit suicide

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Two Ohio teen-agers left a suicide note in their hotel room, then leaped to their deaths from their 14th-floor balcony at Walt Disney World, the Orange County sheriff's office said Wednesday.

Jerry Heitzman, 17, of Tipp City, Ohio, and Christine Ruetter, 18, of Kettering, Ohio, were killed when they landed on the roof of the first-floor restaurant at the Howard Johnson at Walt Disney Village, said sheriff's spokeswoman Denise Gainer.

"They wrote a note expressing their intention to commit suicide and jumped together from their 14th-story balcony," she said. "They fell 12 stories to the roof of the restaurant below."

The pair's parents were unaware that they had traveled to Florida, investigators learned.

"The father had reported his son missing. The mother of the daughter was vacationing when the daughter left, so she was unaware when the daughter left with Heitzman," Gainer said. "Apparently they used the daughter's mom's credit card for the room."

A witness reported hearing a scream, stepping out on a balcony and seeing the two bodies below, Gainer said.

Throughout the summer, contractors have been hard at work adding 1,900 new seats to the Ice Arena. With the project almost finished the renovated Ice Arena will be the 11th largest college arena in the nation.

Ice Arena adds seats

Renovation builds capacity to 5,023

by Don Hensley
sports editor

It's going to be loud, very loud. As if the Bowling Green Ice Arena wasn't already a noise box, the athletic department has gone a step further to make it one of the loudest in the nation.

While most of the students at BG were home working over the summer, the athletic department hired Stough and Stough architects to design a way to expand the Ice Arena and what they came up with was 1,900 new seats.

The new look has the rink entirely closed in at the north end of the arena, giving the stands a horseshoe shape.

"It's time we took a step forward with the program," BG hockey coach Jerry York said.

"Most of the credit for the expansion should go to Jack Gregory (athletic director)."

With the new capacity at 5,023, the Ice Arena becomes the 11th largest rink in the nation and the fourth largest in the Central Collegiate Hockey Association.

The three rinks that are larger than BG in the conference are Illinois-Chicago's Pavillion (8,802), Michigan's Yost Arena (8,100) and Michigan State's Munn Ice Arena (6,255).

With the increase in size, the larger rink will hopefully help those fans that were turned away in seasons past because they didn't want to wait outside in the cold for two hours prior to the game.

"I think that before there were a lot of people that didn't get a chance to see us play," York said. "Now those same people will be able to get into the arena. I also think it will give those people living in the Toledo area a chance to see our games."

The expansion will also help the BG program in the area of recruiting. It is no secret that a freshman hockey player wants to play in front of the biggest crowds possible.

"The expansion will definitely help us in the recruiting process because we go from being in the bottom third in the nation in the area of capacity, to 11th in the nation," York said. "Now the arena looks more like a complete arena."

Although the bigger arena will benefit BG in the amount of money that will be brought in for each game as well as in the area of recruiting, it is evident that the most important aspect of the new seating will be the noise level.

With this in mind, the Falcons have decided to change benches, thus forcing the opponents goal-tender to play in the closed end for two periods.

"We want to force the opponents to play down there," York said. "With the noise level that high it should work to our advantage."

Co-captain Kevin Dahl also expressed his pleasure with the new seating.

"I can't wait to play in there with the new seats," he said. "It's going to be a zoo."

The Falcons will open their home slate on October 13th when they take on Northern Michigan.

Ryan heads for 6,000th strikeout

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — What's next, Nolan?

"I don't think I'll be around for 6,000 strikeouts," Ryan said, shortly after getting No. 5,000 Tuesday night. "I'll be long gone."

Well, maybe a Cy Young Award. It would be his first.

Or perhaps his 300th career victory. He needs just 13 more and it looks like he's going to pitch another year.

"That's probably going to be the next big event," Texas Rangers general manager Tom Grieve said. "But with him, you never know."

For all his accomplishments, Ryan is only thinking about one thing right now. His start Sunday night at home against California.

And another large crowd will be on hand, for sure. Ryan's starts draw about 6,000 fans above the average and it's for a simple reason — because every time he pitches, a sixth no-hitter is possible.

Ryan, 42, made some more history Tuesday night with his 5,000th strikeout. He wound up fanning 13 batters, walking just two and giving up only five hits, but lost to Oakland 2-0.

"The most important thing was winning. He wanted it more than anybody else," said rookie catcher Chad Kreuter, who was 2 years old when Ryan began his big-league career in 1966.

Ryan, 14-8, lost a complete game for the first time since July 1, 1985. He got No. 5,000 when he struck out Rickey Henderson with a 96 mph fastball in the fifth inning, and later fanned five straight batters and was throwing at 93 mph in the ninth.

"Roger Clemens throws hard, but Nolan has more success with what he does," Henderson said. "Nobody in baseball can do what he's doing."

Henderson opened the game with double and struck out in the third inning.

"When Rickey came up in the fifth, he said, 'If I strike out here, I want to take out the ball to the mound,'" Kreuter related. "I said no, that was my job. He said, 'No, seriously, I want to present it to Nolan.' I said I'd do that."

After fouling off two full-count pitches, Ryan brought heat and sent Henderson walking back to the dugout.

Senior Falcon goalie called upon to lead young squad

by Mike Drabenstott
sports reporter

No bones about it.

"It never really bothered me. I never let it bother me," Loescher said.

Bulldog

BG's Mickey Loescher prepares to enter his fourth season as the starter in goal for the Falcons. The senior RTVF major has made a name for himself because of his outstanding play, last year he recorded a 1.45 goals against average.

Loescher

"I think they look up to him," Palmisano noted. "They have a great deal of respect for him."
